factors, and geopolitical conflicts, our core business remained resilient. In anticipation of the forthcoming recovery, operational expenses remained consistent and increased as usual. However, elevated interest rates resulted in higher interest costs. Additionally, opportunities emerged within the retail sector due to consolidation, prompting PDS to strategically invest in new verticals and teams. PDS invested ~₹100cr in teams and strategic opportunities which were accounted as expenses in the P&L, both at the platform and vertical levels. These investments were diversified, spanning design-led sourcing to broaden the reach across different regions and product categories, while also fortifying the procurement network. Additionally, resources were directed towards augmenting brand management capabilities. The Company anticipates that these investments will fuel growth and enhance profitability in the medium to long run.

Speaking on the developments during the year, Pallak Seth, Executive Vice Chairman, said, "In light of the current year's performance, we perceive it as merely a transient phase in PDS's continuous evolution. The disruptions being witnessed in the fashion landscape are unveiling numerous promising prospects, prompting us to expand our talent pool and capabilities to seize these opportunities. We are fortified with confidence in our capacity to harness strategic advantages within the global fashion value chain. Our paramount goal remains consistent: to position ourselves as the foremost and innovative solutions provider throughout the fashion value chain."

Assessing the Company's performance throughout the fourth quarter of Fiscal Year 2024, as well as the year in its entirety, Sanjay Jain, Group CEO, shared insights, stating, "As we reflect on our performance for both Q4 FY24 and the fiscal year as a whole, it's evident that our journey has been marked by challenges amidst an environment of tepid demand. However, we are encouraged by the uptick in growth witnessed during the final quarter of the year. Looking ahead, our focus is squarely set on maximizing returns from the strategic investments made, with a keen emphasis on fostering synergies across our operations. We remain dedicated to unlocking the full potential of the PDS platform and leveraging synergies to drive sustainable growth in the years to come."
